A ribbon cutting for ABPS Designs was held Monday, September 29 by the Paris-Henry County Chamber of Commerce.

"Aunt Cord Way" Dedication An event honoring and commemorating the naming of a section of State Highway 70 in Camden after the first woman voter in Tennessee will be held Friday morning. Mary Cordelia Beasley Hudson ("Aunt Cord") of Camden cast the very first vote by a female in Tennessee on April 22, 1919. Her vote was cast in a Camden Municipal Election and came just days after the deciding vote in the Tennessee Legislature made it legal for women to vote. Benton County Mayor Brett Lashlee said Aunt Cord intended to vote in the national election, too, but died before she could accomplish that. Aunt Cord died Oct. 2, 1920 and that is why that date was selected for the event. The dedication will begin around 8 a.m. Friday, October 2nd and take place at the intersection of Extension Street and Highway 70E. Lashlee said a two-mile stretch of highway will be named Aunt Cord Way and it runs right by the home where she spent most of her life. Welcomes will be presented by Lashlee and Camden Mayor Roger Pafford, followed by remarks by family members of Aunt

A good crowd was present for the Chamber Coffee held at Clayton Homes on Monday, September 29.

“Purple In Paris” To Recognize Domestic Violence
The Eiffel Tower in Paris will be lit up purple October 1-3 in recognition of Domestic Violence Awareness Month and many agencies in the community will be going “Purple In Paris” during this time. Brancy White, Henry County Domestic Violence Response Manager at WRAP said due to the ongoing COVID-19 pandemic, the annual recognition will be different. Typically, there is a proclamation and walk around the court square, but this year they decided on the “Purple In Paris” project. White said, “On October 1st, many people and agencies in the community will be participating by wearing the color purple and posting to Facebook with the hashtags: #PurpleInParis and #WRAPTn.” Free and Confidential hotline 24/7 Contact 1-800-273-8712 (Interpreters available)
