Bring the Beauty of Fall Indoors

Submitted by Cindy Lowe,
Design Consultant, Merison's Furniture

With cooler mornings and shorter daylight hours, our minds naturally gravitate to Fall. Turning your home into a warm inviting atmosphere can make this time of the year seem warm and cozy.

Bring the colors of fall indoors by changing the pillows on your sofa or bed. Adding burlap, orange, red, or brown pillows with or without cute fall motifs can give your home a cozy feel. Make your sofa more inviting by throwing a blanket or afghan over the back. Nothing is better seem warmer. The delightful scents of pumpkin spice or apple crisp will add to the mood you want to convey in your fall home.

Fall is also an excellent time to add a coffee bar to your kitchen, breakfast area, or dining room. All you really need is a small table or buffet and a coffee pot. Keep your table area stocked with fall themed cups, coffee, tea, and flavored creamers. Why pay for that spiced pumpkin latte when you can make one at your own coffee bar? Think about how good your house will smell too!

than cuddling up on a cool morning with a cup of coffee and a warm blanket.

Choose fall scented candles to place around your home. The glow of the candlelight can make your house

You may want to take this opportunity to look for somewhere in your home to create a cozy reading nook. Any space in your home where you can add a comfortable chair, small

RESTORATION SERVICES

“In August we had a water leak and it damaged the carpet in my daughter’s bedroom. Servall came out over the weekend and ripped out the carpet and padding. They dried out the floor and treated it to keep mold from growing. Then, they came back and laid new padding and carpet and moved the furniture back. All the work was very professionally done and in a timely manner. We are extremely grateful for their services and this is just one of the many services that Servall Restoration offers. I would highly recommend them if you ever have any water damage to your home.

WHAT TO LOOK FOR IN A NEW ROOF

(StatePoint) Between strong winds, heavy rains, and threats like fire and natural disaster, simply having a roof over one’s head is not always enough.

When choosing a strong roof designed to protect your home and its occupants, here are some things to consider:

Fire Prevention

Real wood shake roofs can be extremely combustible and serve as kindling for wildfires. If you live in an area with even a remote possibility of wildfires, consider investing in a roof that resists flame spread. While no roof will resist a “ground up” fire that en-gulf the entire home, polymer roofing tiles that are installed with proper underlayments can help protect a home from wind-driven embers that can ignite the roof.

Impact Resistance

Whether you live in an area prone to direct or indirect threats of tornadoes or hurricanes, or you simply live in a region that experiences strong storms, take note: flying debris associated with severe weather can become dangerous in high winds. Damage from airborne tree branches and flying loose items can be devastating to a roof not equipped for impact. Having a synthetic roof that has achieved the highest ratings on impact resistance tests can help protect your property.

“Even if your roof has stood up to strong weather conditions in the past, it’s important to make sure it’s still in shape before the next round of bad weather hits,” says Mark Hansen, vice president of sales and marketing for DaVinci Roofscapes, which makes high-performing polymer roofing products that have achieved the highest grades possible on multiple industry tests.

Examine the roof yourself or have a professional roofer assess for damage you may not be able to see from the ground. They can make repairs or recommend a new roof replacement.

Durability

No matter where you live, it’s important that roof tiles can handle wear and tear. Ideally, roof tiles should resist curling, fading, cracking, mold, algae, fungus and insects. Roofing products that come with a strong warranty can offer you peace of mind.

Other Considerations

Protecting your home and family should be your number one consideration. Luckily, durable synthetic roofing options abound that offer the authentic look of real wood or slate beauty, as well as environmental sustainability. For the benefits of an eco-friendly roof, it’s a good idea to seek out products that are completely recyclable and meet standards set by organizations like the Cool Roof Rating Council and the U.S. Green Building Council.

For a complete free guide on upgrading roofing to protect a home long-term, visit ThisOldHouse.netline.com.

For an important, lasting home project, evaluate your roof and consider making an upgrade that will protect your house from everyday wear and tear, as well as the worst case scenario.

A More Energy-Efficient Approach to Home Cooling and Heating

(NAPS)—Many homeowners crank up their central air conditioning system or turn to multiple noisy window units to keep cool in the summer. Then come fall, they crank up the heat. Unfortunately, neither option is ideal: central air, though convenient, wastes energy by its all-or-nothing nature. Window units, in addition to being cumbersome, diminish a room's attractiveness and obscure its views. Luckily, there is a third option that avoids these pitfalls. They are called mini-split systems.

Up To 25% Savings

Mini-splits are ductless heating and cooling systems that allow you to control the temperatures in individual rooms rather than the entire house.

You're not only

Wall-mounted indoor units are sleek and can be mounted high on the wall.

Floor mounted indoor units are excellent solutions for rooms with minimal wall space.

Individual Zoning Control offers a different temperature in every room for year-round customized comfort.

customizing your comfort, you're saving considerable energy and up to 25% on utility bills. Overall, mini-split provider Fujitsu General offers the most energy-efficient lineup.

Advantages Over Window-Mounted AC & Central Air

Compared to window units, mini-split systems are more attractive, quieter and more energy efficient. Plus, they're set higher on the wall or ceiling, freeing up living space. Central air systems require expensive, intrusive ductwork and they're not scalable, meaning it cannot be easily extended to previously unfinished living spaces like attics, basements or three-season rooms. Mini-splits don't require complex, expensive ductwork and can be installed to cool and heat newly converted spaces.

Mini-splits also allow for temperature control by individual room for maximum comfort and energy efficiency. You can keep different rooms at different temperatures—a solution to the thermostat wars waged by so many families, especially those with young children or senior parents. And while central air systems and window units can be noisy, mini-splits are whisper quiet indoors and out.

Maximum Flexibility. Minimum Space

Fujitsu's Mini-split

Systems position compressors outside the house, but there's no need for a basement- or attic-located evaporator unit, thanks to thin copper tubing that pumps refrigerant directly to discreet evaporators inside. In cold weather, the same unit works in reverse by absorbing heat from the outside air and moving it indoors. The result is efficient cooling and heating for year-round, whole-house comfort.

Finally, mini-split systems come in all shapes and sizes for a refreshing amount of choice. Wall-mounted systems mount well above eye-level, while floor-mounted systems, with their compact size, are ideal for residential radiator replacements or any room with limited upper wall space, such as a kitchen or sunroom. Slim duct systems are ideal for homeowners who want units completely out of sight, since they're concealed in a ceiling or framed enclosure below a ceiling.

For a nearby Fujitsu General contractor, call 888-888-3424 or visit www.constantcomfort.com or www.fujitsugeneral.com.

You can ask about Mini Split systems at your local heating and cooling contractors.

BY CHOICE HOTELS

The Floors Of Tomorrow Will Reflect What's On The Runway Today

(NAPS)—When you walk into a room, your eyes do not move from top to bottom—quite the opposite. Your gaze starts at the floor and moves up. Just as the clothes you wear make a fashion statement, your floors set the tone, add the drama and create the mood in your home.

According to the World Floor Covering Association (WFCA), the latest products and trends in flooring offer high-tech innovations, low-maintenance attributes and eco-friendly features. Below, you'll find a closer look at some of the latest styles to consider when it's time to dress your floors:

Weathered & Worn

Aged and vintage looks have maintained their firm grip when it comes to floor trends. Think genuine hardwood with worn, heavily textured wood grain and the weathered imperfections that can only be achieved with years of use. For many, price has kept these highly sought floors out of reach—until now.

Manufacturers today are building the patina of reclaimed wood into brand-new flooring products. Solid and engineered hardwood formats can have all the distressed and eroded character of products much older so each board has a unique look. The same vintage looks are available in laminate and luxury vinyl tile (LVT). The surfaces are created using high-resolution digital imaging and state-of-the-art embossing techniques. Designed to minimize repeats, they're almost impossible to tell from the real thing—and significantly less expensive!

Porcelain tiles feature salvaged looks such as oxidized metal and weathered wood. Tiles with dry, earthen textures and parched surface finishes in light to mid sun-baked shades and hazy grays are also popular. The beauty of the weathered look is that it pairs well with all interiors, does a wonderful job of hiding blemishes, and works well with both soft and bold color accents.

Depth & Dimension

The right flooring can make large spaces cozy and small spaces grand with long, wide planks and tiles. Longer wood planks and large-format porcelain tiles mean fewer seams and grout lines, lengthening smaller spaces such as hallways and bathrooms as the eye is not distracted by breaks in the flooring. Fewer seams and less grout means easier cleaning, too. Texture and Pattern The latest looks in LVT involve nature-inspired low-luster and matte finishes. Also in step with toned-down looks are oil-finish hard-wood floors, which are steadily gaining ground among designers and consumers. Natural oils penetrate the wood grain for a satinlike, zero-gloss appearance. In soft-surface flooring, highly affordable synthetics offer a more delustered look that mimics more expensive natural materials including wool, silk and cotton. The matte surface also works to mask vacuum marks and foot-prints. Concrete flooring offers soft and warm looks in muted grays, taupe and beige. Its versatility makes it complementary and adaptable to all kinds of interior settings.

Another trend is to mix contrasting materials such as wood and tile. Though not possible with the “real thing” due to wood’s tendency to expand and contract, pairing wood and stone looks in porcelain creates a stunning effect. Tiles made to look like bricks are also popular. The laid-back “loft look” in porcelain is much easier to maintain than the real thing. The most basic of shapes, the stripe, is also appearing in all categories of flooring, especially soft surface. It appears frequently in the form of striated rock looks in weaves; in porcelain and glass, as mini finger tiles; and in vinyl, in looks that mimic linen, sedimentary rock and parquet. Carpet continues to get softer and more plush as technology advances. The latest look features layered color, soft texture and lots of dimension. Using another technique that combines both loops and sheared fibers, carpets are imbued with 3-D effects featuring multiple heights and colors ranging from subtle to bold. Growing in popularity are carpets and rugs in florals and foliage looks in shades of indigo, petrol, purple and green. Other new carpets show sculpted surfaces that look like sand dunes, ocean waves and tree bark.

on carpets with built-in stain repellent and total moisture absorption. New technology forces all the water from the stain to evaporate so the trace material left over can simply be wiped away.

Modern Conveniences
Beauty is important in floor coverings, but function is also key. Over 70 percent of the population owns a pet, so one manufacturer offers a 100 percent “All Pet Warranty”

Lighting Tips to Enhance Your Outdoor Living Space

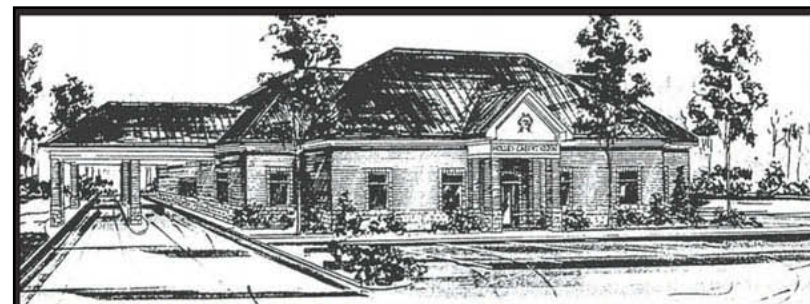

(NewsUSA) - Sponsored News - Summer is in full swing, but it's not too late to plan a relaxing staycation or backyard social gathering while the evenings are warm and clear. To make the most of your family and friends' time, look around your outdoor space to see if the existing lighting works properly and enhances the ambience.

According to the American Lighting Association (ALA), a few updates to your outside lighting can make your outdoor time more enjoyable. And the best part: It does not have to be complicated or costly to transform your existing patio, deck or pool area into a lovely retreat.

Lighting. “A few well-placed, low-voltage path or accent lights can make a huge impact on a well-manicured landscape.” No lawn is too small. “Even modest homes or those with limited yards or gardens can benefit,” he says.

A few outdoor lighting tips:

Just like indoor lighting, outdoor lighting is most effective if it utilizes overhead, task and ambient light sources. Even outdoors, where there are not typically boundaries and borders, those three layers will enhance enjoyment and help define smaller sitting and entertaining areas as though they are outdoor rooms.

Enhance security with lighting near entrances and in dark corners. Aim lights away from the door so as not to blind anyone as they enter your outdoor area.

Reduce glare

Light walkways and paths with light that is cast downward and fixtures that are hooded. In many cases, exterior-safe dimmers and movable fixtures, which can be added to a patio or porch as needed, can provide flexible control over the level of light.

Add decorative elements

While functionality is the top priority, aesthetic elements are important for a relaxing and inspiring setting. Focus on lighting that highlights architectural and natural details, as well as other decorative elements like arbors, pergolas, patios, etc.

Conserve energy. Consider LEDs for their efficiency. Also think about Energy Star and Dark Sky fixtures that reduce glare and minimize light into the sky as well as neighboring yards and windows. Remember to check the color (chromaticity) of LED outdoor lights. Low chromaticity lights (2700 or 3000K) will look similar to incandescent and halogen bulbs. Higher chromaticity LEDs (4000K and above) will have a whiter, bluer look.

Visit a nearby ALA-member retail store to see the latest outdoor lighting options to make your outdoor space a true oasis. For more, go to americanlightingas-soc.com.

How to Store Your Warm Weather Gear for Winter Hibernation

(NewsUSA) - Sponsored News - It's that time of year when the weather turns crisp, colors brighten, and there are a dwindling number of perfect days left to relax outside or take one more drive, ride, or trip to the lake.

Too soon, it will be time to put away your classic car, boat, motorcycle, and patio furniture, until warm weather arrives again.

Proper storage techniques are super important to keep your gear in great shape and running order. To make sure you are ready to roll next spring, we've compiled a list of simple storage tips:

Storing your classic car or motorcycle. It's important to clean and remove all road grime, dust and other debris from all interior and exterior surfaces before storing. Then, after cleaning, make sure to protect hard surfaces and finished leather with 303 Automotive Protectant. Also, remember that old gas breaks down over time and can lead to gummed-up fuel lines, carburetors and injectors. To avoid these issues, fill your fuel tank 95 percent full with fresh gas and add a quality fuel stabilizer such as STA-BIL Storage to keep the gas fresh for as long as 24 months. After the stabilizer is added, run the engine for a few minutes to ensure that the stabilizer gets into all parts of the fuel system.

Storing your boat and water equipment. It's best to do a thorough cleaning of your boat to avoid any deterioration while it sits in storage. Start by removing all the dirt and grime from the boat's surfaces with a cleaner such as 303 Marine Citrus Cleaner & Degreaser, and protect the exterior of the boat with 303 Marine Quick Wax. Moving to the inside, similarly to the classic car, fill the gas tank 95 percent full with fresh fuel and add a fuel stabilizer. Store your boat in a cool, dry place and cover it to keep dust away.

* Storing your small engine equipment. Most fuel available today contains ethanol, and ethanol can wreak havoc on small engines if they're not treated before storage. Over time, the water and ethanol will separate and sink to the bottom of the fuel tank, leading to corrosion, stalling and engine damage. To make sure your engines start up come spring, fill your tank with fresh fuel and add a stabilizer to the tank. It's also a good idea to store your small engine equipment indoors to protect it from the elements.

* Storing your patio furniture. Before putting your outdoor oasis away, make sure to wash or brush off any loose debris. Remove surface stains with a cleaner such as 303 Multi-Surface Cleaner and make sure to protect your cushions from future spills and spots with a product such as 303 Fabric Guard. Make sure to apply it in a well ventilated area and let it dry before storage. Finally, protect the hard surfaces of your furniture to repel dust and prevent fading and cracking.

Dust. Mold. Mildew. Dander. Chemicals. What do all of these have in common? All of these are considered contaminant/air pollutants. Everyday life of cooking, cleaning, walking in/out of the house can generate a great deal of air pollutants that are pulled into your HVAC system, recirculating 5 to 7 times a day on average, producing a build-up in your ductwork. Although filters are used, the heating and cooling system still gets dirty through normal use. The heating and cooling system is the lungs of your home, taking in air and breathing air out. In a typical six-room home, up to 40 pounds of dust is created annually through everyday living.

When cleaning the HVAC system it should be placed under continuous negative pressure with a truck mounted vacuum, allowing very fine particles to be removed from the system as they become airborne, preventing the spread of contaminants into the living space. A portable device is used to brush/agitate the ductwork from inside the home while the truck mounted vacuum provides us with a way to remove contaminants, and debris directly from your duct, not through your home.

Having dirty ducts does not necessarily mean the air is unhealthy in your home, although they could be contributing to larger health issues or harboring contaminants. Someone that has severe allergies, respiratory, or autoimmune disorders would greatly benefit from having a Negative Air Duct cleaning. Also, if you have a fuel burning furnace, stove, or fireplace, new construction home or have had extensive remodeling, or water has gotten into the ductwork, duct cleaning could be very beneficial.

If you would like a free estimate on having your ductwork cleaned using our negative air truck mounted cleaning system, call Servall Restoration 731-642-1111. We also offer a video inspection of your duct during the estimate.

Is Your Money Going Up the Chimney?

How to Make Your Fireplace More Efficient

(StatePoint) Nothing beats gathering around the fire in winter. Unfortunately, a wood-burning fireplace could be a major source of energy loss in your home, sending your utility bills sky high.

However, you don't need to sacrifice the fire to improve your home's energy efficiency and reduce your heating bills; in fact, it's possible to convert your wood fireplace into an efficient heat source with the following tips.

Upgrade Your Fireplace

Consider a gas fireplace insert. They generate more radiant heat and are cleaner to maintain than traditional masonry style wood-burning fireplaces, which are a leading source of indoor air loss.

“Traditional wood fireplaces add a lot of charm to a home, but they are inefficient -- even when they aren't in use,” says Andy Tesch, brand director of Heat & Glo, the leading manufacturer of innovative gas fireplaces, stoves and inserts. “A gas fireplace insert is a great alternative to maintain the ambiance a fire creates while enhancing efficiency.”

Installing a flue sealer

A gas fireplace insert is cleaner, too, creating no ash, soot, or smoke. Models like the Escape from Heat & Glo use energy-saving FireBrick technology to increase efficiency and are low maintenance, turning on and off with the flip of a switch.

Learn more about the benefits of a gas fireplace insert at heatnglo.com/insertawareness.

If you can't part with the aroma, crackle and act of building a real fire, consider pellet and EPA-certified wood inserts, which can be an easy, clean and efficient alternative as well.

If making the upgrade to an insert is not possible, a few simple steps can drastically improve the energy efficiency of your fireplace. Number one, when the fireplace is not in use, close the chimney damper. You'll prevent warm air and your money from going up and out the chimney. A flue sealer is an affordable, inflatable stopper that fits below the damper to further seal off the chimney and is a worthwhile purchase.

Proper maintenance can also go far to improve your fireplace's efficiency. Have it inspected, maintained and cleaned annually. Even if you love DIY, you may want to hire a contractor to ensure the job is done safely and thoroughly.

Considering adding doors or a cover to the front of your fireplace to help reduce the draft and improve the look. There are many styles available to enhance your interior design.

This winter, bring together both traditional charm and modern energy efficiency. A few upgrades and habits will allow you to enjoy your fireplace all winter long, while keeping heating bills low.

5 Ways to Keep Your Home Clean During a Remodel

(NewsUSA) - Maybe you're finally updating your 1970s kitchen to one that's more sleek and modern. Perhaps it's as simple as remodeling a bathroom. Whatever the room, home renovations can be pretty hectic and messy.

To get through your renovation, home organization is the key. The following tips should help you stay on top of the chaos.

~ Have files for everything. Paperwork should be kept in one place. Inexpensive file folders that are portable can help you stay structured. Create a file for all receipts, and as you post them to a budget, move them to another file labeled “posted”. Permits and papers from the city should be kept together. Just for fun, create a folder of design ideas and pictures from magazines to keep you inspired.

~ Cover it up.

One word: plastic. No, not credit cards. Use it to cover all heavy furniture that can't be moved from the room. This will prevent dust and debris from getting into the cracks and crevices and keep the finish on the furniture looking shiny.

~ Keep a list.

No matter how good your memory, things are going to fall through the cracks. Hanging a clipboard on a nail in the area you are working in will help you to stay on task about people you need to contact, or things you need to do or buy for the next day.

~ Have a place for everything.

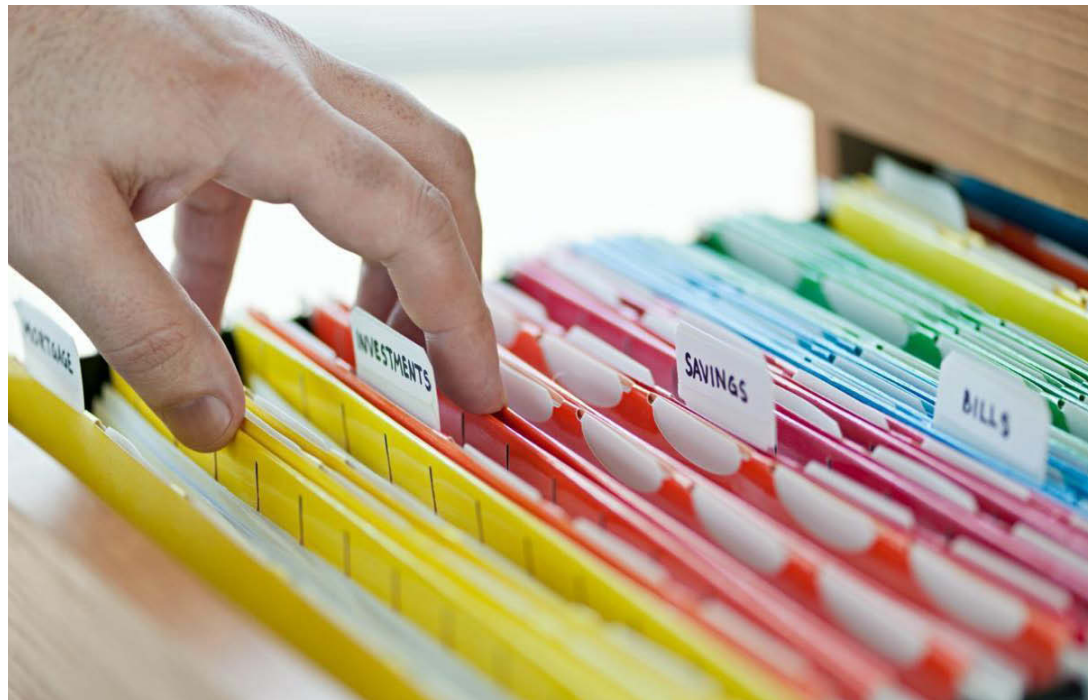

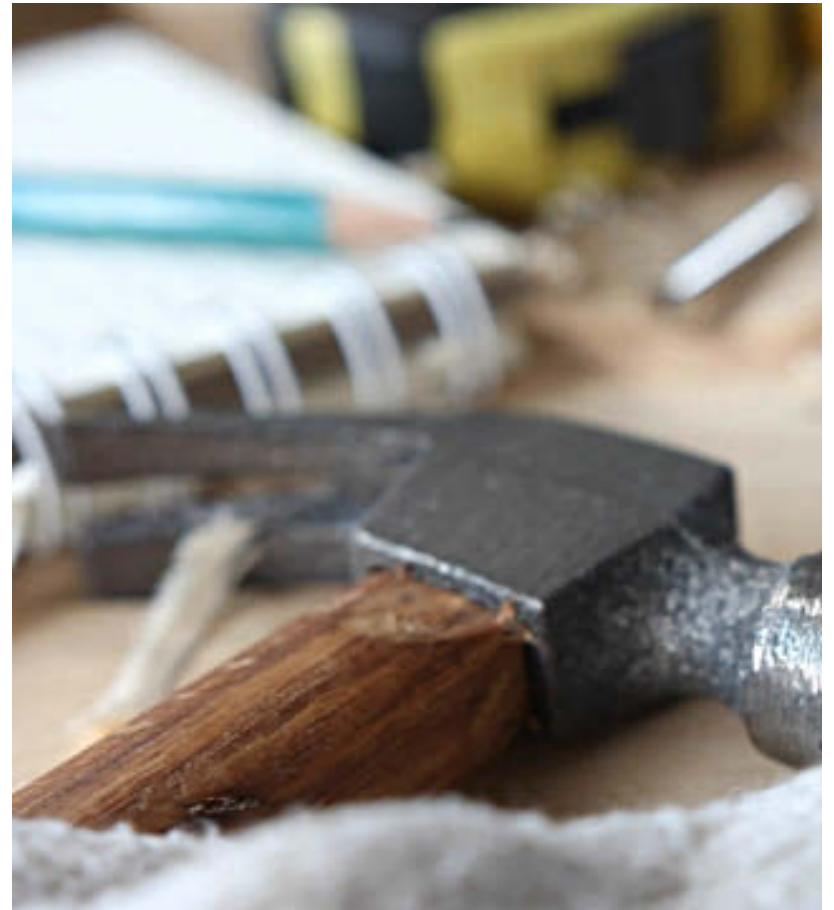

If you're doing the remodel yourself, there is going to be a certain amount of chaos and upheaval. One thing that will help reduce your stress level is keeping your tools in one place. Create a space, such as a table, where all small tools are kept.

The larger tools can sit on the floor under the table. Every time you're finished with a tool, put it back.

~ Contain your stress.

If you're a person who turns to cigarettes or smokeless tobacco in times of stress, try your best to keep things clean by going outside to smoke or by carrying a portable spittoon. After all, you don't want a fresh burn mark or stain from a spill to end up on your brand new floors. FLASR has created a one-of-a-kind pocket-sized spittoon that allows users to open and shut it with just one hand, making it an ideal solution for taking your snuff, dip or chew into any room that's being renovated. In addition, the Atlanta-based company's spittoon, has an advanced closing mechanism, ensuring that it stays securely closed when not in use, eliminating the risk of spill and leaks often seen with cups and bottles. As the oppressive heat of Summer begins to fade and Fall ushers in a welcome relief of lower temperatures, our focus often turns to the list of home improvements we'd like to tackle. The kids and grandchildren have settled back into a routine. The summer activities that dominated our Maybe you've longed for an addition to your existing home to be used for your growing family. Dead space, such as a garage that is never used, can be transformed into an additional bedroom, a play room, or a new den.

Perhaps you are an empty nester ready to transform your extra bedroom into a craft room. You may have an unfinished basement that you would like to to remodel. You can jump into this century by simply updating your counter tops and replacing the flooring. If you're ready for a major change, you can consider replacing your cabinets and changing the layout of your room.

If your carpet has served its purpose and you are ready for something different, you may consider ceramic tile or wood flooring. Laminate flooring is a good option if hard wood floors are beyond your budget. Open floor plans are on trend and can be achieved in your existing home by removing non load bearing walls. While opening the floor space, it will also give you more room to entertain friends and family without adding an addition.

Member

A fresh coat of paint or a new color can brighten up your home. A great way to revitalize your space is to add wide baseboards or trim. This attention to detail will add character to your walls.

However, all home improvements are not cosmetic. You may have noticed your floors are sagging or creaking. You may need to have that addressed. An inspection of your foundation may reveal a need for additional bracing under your home. If a moisture issue is found, you may need your foundation vents checked to insure they are working properly. If moisture or termite damage has occurred, the main sill may need to be replaced and a moisture barrier installed.

The attention you give your home now will add to the satisfaction and pride you have in your home for years to come. David's Home Improvement, LLC has served our area for over 30 years. You can trust them to make your home improvement dreams become reality. Call us today for a free estimate. 731-247-5422 or 270-293-2643. Stephanie Zuck-schwerdt

7 Helpful Hacks for Quick Kitchen Cleanup

(StatePoint) Prepare. Eat. Clean up. Repeat. In the kitchen, it's a never-ending cycle of conquering messes. These seven simple cleaning hacks, tips and products that will cut down time spent restoring order in your space.

1. Start with the Sink

Before cooking, always empty the sink to make space for washing dirty items, including your hands. Combat lingering odors from garlic or onions by rubbing your hands on your stainless steel sink to remove the smell. Be sure to disinfect the sink first, as research shows that Salmonella and E. coli are found on 45 percent of kitchen sinks!

2. Find a Fabulous Faucet

Rethink your faucet. Simplify clean-up with a high-arc pulldown spout, which provides extra room for large pots and pans, and the ability to reach all corners of the sink. Plus, new spray technologies, such as Moen's Power Clean, can provide more spray power while containing splash and minimizing mess. Greater force means faster clean-up and less water used on tough-to-rinse foods, like peanut butter.

3. Make Microwave Miracles

Your sink and faucets are the workhorses of the kitchen, but your microwave is probably next in line. So, what happens if your eggs explode or your sauce splatters? Place a bowl of water with cut lemons in the microwave and run it until the water boils. Let it sit for a few minutes to allow the steam to loosen the splatter and then wipe clean. In the future, always cover your items with a microwave-safe lid, paper towel or even a coffee filter!

4. Get Creative with Coffee Filters

Coffee filters are perfect for many cleaning (or mess prevention) hacks in the kitchen. They work as a spoon rest, a strainer or a wrap for ice cream cones to catch drips, and can be placed under greasy foods like bacon or french fries to soak up excess oil and cut down on cleanup (and calories).

5. Go Streak-Free

Tired of the constant fingerprints and streaks on stainless appliances? Ditch harsh cleaners for a simple solution: water and a micro-fiber cloth, which feature microscopic fibers that pick up more than regular cloths. Better yet, choose faucets and appliances with finishes that repel these unsightly marks, such as Moen's exclusive Spot Resist faucet finish, which helps resist fingerprints and water spots.

6. Don't Trash Food -- Dispose It

More than 60 million homeowners rely on garbage disposals to assist with daily kitchen cleanup, according to Moen Consumer & Market Insights. This handy appliance can significantly reduce the amount of trash you create, which means sending less to the landfill and fewer smelly garbage cans! Choose a powerful, dependable garbage disposal, such as Moen's complete line that quickly and powerfully grinds food scraps, allowing you to spend more time at the dinner table and less time at the sink.

7. Protect the Pantry

Most pantry doors are shut for a reason -- there's a mess lurking in there! From sugar spills to syrup leaks, many shelves are a sticky situation. Non-adhesive shelf liners are an ideal solution for easy cleanup. The solid surface will help contain spills and, since they're machine-washable, you can toss the liner in the wash and re-use it.
